

"Well, madame," says the head of the house, who has apparently got out of bed on the wrong side, "what have you got for breakfast this morning? Boiled eggs, eh? Seems to me you never have anything but boiled eggs. Boiled eggs! And what else, madame, may I ask?" "Mutton chops, my dear," says the wife, "mutton chops!" "Mutton chops!" echoes the husband, bursting into a peal of sardonic laughter. "Mutton chops! I could have guessed it. By the living jingo, madame, if I ever eat another meal inside of this house!" and jamming on his hat and alarming the door the aggrieved man bounds down the stairs and betakes himself to a restaurant.

"What'll you have, sir," says the waiter politely, handing him the bill of fare. "Ah," says the guest, having glanced over it, "let me see! Bring me two boiled eggs and a mutton chop." [N. Y. World.]

Mennonites have a curious way of selecting a new preacher. A vacancy having recently occurred in the Weaverland Mennonite Church in Lancaster, Pa., through the death of their clergyman, their choice of a new preacher was made last week in the following manner: A number of the members were placed in nomination, and on the day for the election, all the candidates named met with the congregation in the church. As many books were placed in a row as there were candidates. One of these books contained a slip of paper, and the candidate drawing the book containing the slip was selected preacher.

"Woman's rights!" exclaimed a Philadelphia man when the subject was broached, "what more rights do they want? My wife bosses me; our daughters boss us both, and the servant girl bosses the whole family. It's time the men were allowed some rights."—[Philadelphia News.]

There are some old smokers who would like to get into that "whisky pool."
